BLOUNT'S BLUNTNESSECALLS ATTENTION TO A LOOSE
APPROPRIATION BILL.The Washington Georgian again brands at the Treasury Door and Wants to Know the Reason Why?
Carrying Blount's Bill and Black.
Promotion for Mr. Surge.

Special Dispatch to the Constitution.
WASHINGTON, April 10.—Today Mr. Blount recalled the bills reported by the district committee appropriating money to reclaim the Potomac flats. No specifications or estimates were given and the door was left open for loose expenditure of three or four millions. Mr. Blount plainly talked of the bill as an invitation for jobbery, and declared that the index could be done by proper work on the river channel for less than half a million. The committee report alleged that Julian Hartridge died of malaria from the flats, and that it fastened, if it did not cause, Garfield's death. To this Mr. Blount replied that no malaria had been alleged for Mr. Hartridge's death, and he protested against the indecency of such arguments to shield a loose and extravagant appropriation. The bill went over to the Senate, but it cannot pass in anything like its present shape.

REPELLED SHIPPERD.
Mr. Blount was conspicuously in the shipperd investigation today, and gave this side the severest whipping he has had. Shipperd lost his temper once, but Mr. Blount continued to play his searching inquiries.

PROMOTION FOR MR. SURGE.
W. L. SURGE, though commissioned several weeks ago as consul at Panama, is still here. He will probably be given a more important station. He was spoken of as charge d'affaires in Bolivia, but it now seems likely that he will be sent as minister to the United States of Colombia. His record in the State department, and his accurate knowledge of South American politics, have brought him forward for this high honor.

MR. BLACK'S CONDITION.
Mr. Black's condition is not so favorable as it was a week ago. He has had several calls recently. A relapse, however, is not sufficient to arouse any serious alarm.

REPORT FROM MR. BLUNT.
Dr. Grass writes Mr. Edgar Thompson that Senator Blair is doing well, and speaks encouragingly of the prospects of his early recovery.

THE SAVANNAH HARBOR.
J. L. Warren, of Savannah, has come to represent the city in pressing the claims of the harbor for a liberal appropriation. All the Georgia members seem deeply interested in getting what is due Savannah.

KILLING APPROPRIATIONS.
WASHINGTON, April 10.—In the Senate Mr. Davis, Mr. Allen, and Mr. Ingersoll, pointed conferees on the Indian appropriation bill, Mr. Garland, for Mr. Lamar, who was absent, presented a memorial from the Mississippi legislature for a revival of the land grant of 1836 to aid the Gulf and Ship Island railroad. Mr. Jones presented a memorial from the commercial exchanges of New Orleans in favor of the levee bill and a liberal appropriation to carry out the plans of the Mississippi river commission.

AN INQUIRY.
Mr. Bayard, from the judiciary committee, reported a bill amending the anti-polygamy law, fixing the salaries of the election commissioners under that law at five thousand dollars per annum, in accordance with the recent recommendation of the president. Tassé.

A RIGHT OF WAY ASKED FOR.
A bill was introduced by Mr. Morgan, by request, granting a right-of-way over the public lands in Alabama for a revival of the St. Louis, Montgomery and Florida railroad, and immigration company, and to allow the company to purchase public lands in said States. Mr. Lamar, upon application of Mr. Chandler, was granted two weeks' leave of absence.

ANALYST FROM THE INDIANS.
Mr. Hawley presented a memorial of the Cherokee, Creek and Seminole Indians, petitioning for the maintenance of their treaty relations as heretofore on the pending Indian territory railroad bill.

THE SENATE BILL AUTHORIZING THE SECRETARY OF WAR TO ADJUST AND SETTLE ACCOUNTS FOR ARMS BETWEEN THE SOUTH CAROLINA AND THE UNITED STATES WAS PASSED.

ON MOTION OF MR. DAVIS, OF VIRGINIA, THE SENATE BILL REPORTED BY HIM TO REPEAL, EXCEPT AS STATED, ALL LAWS PROVIDING FOR PROMOTION OR INDEMNITY APPROPRIATIONS, WAS PASSED.

due and referred. By Mr. McLean, of Maryland, for the abrogation of the fifth and sixteenth articles of the Burlingame treaty with China. Mr. Richardson, of New York, introduced a concurrent resolution directing the Senate and House committees on public buildings to inquire into the advisability and cost of purchasing a suitable site for a residence for the president of the United States. Referred.

The House went into committee of the whole on the bill appropriating one million dollars for the reclamation of the Potomac flats at Washington, but without action the committee rose and the House soon after adjourned.

EXAMINING SHIPPERD.
Congressman Blount, of Georgia, this morning called on the shipperd committee.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The examination of Shipperd by the foreign relations committee today, was conducted by Mr. Blount, of Georgia. The witness displayed considerable skill and ingenuity in explaining the passages which Mr. Blount had read from the letter giving to them interpretations other than the ones which obviously suggested themselves to the committee.

LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

WHAT THE SOLONS OF THE CAPITAL ARE DOING.

Circus Spring-Spring Langor-Trouble for Chandler-Arthur's Severity-Between Arthur and Blaine-At Annapolis-Personal Points-Mr. Black's Improvement.

Special Correspondence of the Constitution.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Senate always adjourns for the races but it is accused this week of skipping from Thursday to Monday in honor of the circus. This afternoon familiar faces of the Statesmen were seen scattered all about through the mixed crowd under the canvas. The House was in session but was thinly attended on account of the savdust rain. The circus is the one never failing attraction for old and young, great and small.

Grant is a devotee of the circus. Pious Mr. Hayes has been to see the animals. Arthur would have been this time if he had not perched quite so high. When a step lower last spring he went to the races and stood on the quarter stretch among the pool buyers. The circus is the one never failing attraction for old and young, great and small.

Whether congress has adapted itself to the lazar of the mellowing spring, or whether it has been intended to remain in the lazar, will not profit to inquire. The clerk of the House comes into the Senate and sings out the passage of bill 5,000 and something as if the machinery of that body carrying on a whirlwind like lightning. All congresses are alike, and the amount of work averages remarkably even. We can look for work until the end of June or the session may drag to July, but the scattering will come then.

Teller's speech for Chandler and the delay in Chandler's cannot be insignificant. Billy knows what it is to go before the Senate and come back marked "declined with thanks." The half breeds by Chandler's nomination are smitten at in Washington. Chandler didn't get as much from Blaine and Garfield as he wanted, and he has been weakening on the old campaign ever since. He can't stand Blaine or his faction now.

Every act of the Senate is a determination to use severity rather than persuasion with the refractory wing of his party. Grant and Conkling will not permit any blameworthy appointments. He will Congress by persistent boldness, not by strategic cunning. Arthur has virtually ordered every Blaine man to the choice of the stool of repentance or the penitentiary. It is a square fight on both sides. Blaine's friends mean to stick by him to the last, though they are aware of his weakness. The best of the country has ever seen.

Between Arthur and Blaine no truce is possible. To one who is a complete failure, complete defeat. Everybody acknowledges there is more in Arthur than was supposed. The veto of the Chicago and North Western railroad is out of his hands. He has formed his cabinet with great care for this end, but lost far more than he gained by the rupture with Conkling. Arthur is not bothering the Attorney General in the Senate next week. His line is and he is hewing square up to it.

There is now a vacancy in the naval academy for the Atlanta district, an excellent opportunity for a young man to get a good education and a place in our improving navy. The academy is in the hands of the Hon. Mr. Hammond, and the boy who gets it will be fortunate. It is a notable fact that while the naval academy seems to be gaining all the credit of the improvement, the academy is the result of the practical and the vacant place at the academy is worth the consideration of the young men of the fifth district.

Keiser has never been so bright as when he is out of sight. This third section is just beginning to be understood, and it promises to trouble the polygamists much more than disfranchise.

General Phil Cook seems to turn the almanac backwards. He is livelier than ever, and personally, as popular as any man in the house.

Mr. Stephens is about back to his usual standard of health. As for his spirits they are always fresh and cheerful. His heart don't fail.

Representative Calkins, of Indiana, is working the wires to be the republican nominee for governor in his State. He has one qualification on which there is no dispute, and that is cheek.

Senator Butler returned from South Carolina last night. He is expected to pounce on the Attorney General in the Senate next week. Breaster's South Carolina policy seems a little late in the day and will do no good.

Senator Mortenson, of North Carolina, has gone home for a few days. A lively election will be held in his State next fall and his seat in the Senate is at stake. If the Democrats hold the legislature his re-election is certain.

Mr. Black was placed in a rolling chair yesterday and wheeled through the parlors of his new residence on Petre. He is making visible gains. The wonderful buoyancy that characterized the gloomiest hours of his affliction has never deserted him. It has been the good fortune of Mrs. Black, her mother-in-law, during this affliction her sister, Miss Dorsey Peters, of Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—In the criminal court today, Judge Wiley decided the star case indictments to be good and sufficient. The motion to quash was overruled and the indictment stands.

THE CASE STATED.
The motion to quash was based in part on a Maryland law of 1722, which the defense held to be operative in the district. Judge Wiley held that this law, along with the common law of England, was in force in the district at the time of the crime. He also held the jurisdiction of the court to be complete, and that cases of conspiracy were sufficiently clearly defined

Release—The "Isle of Skye."

LONDON, April 10.—A dispatch to Reuters' telegram company, from St. Petersburg, says that an imperial ukase has been published stating that in deference to the wish of Prince Gortschakoff, the czar has relieved him of the functions of minister of foreign affairs, on account of his shattered health, and advancing years. Prince Gortschakoff still remains the dignified imperial chancellor and member of the council of the empire. In an imperial rescript, which was delivered to Prince Gortschakoff, the czar wrote with his own hand, "With kind regards to you, and to your family, I have decided to relieve you of the functions of minister of foreign affairs. The appointment gives great satisfaction in Constantinople."

THE STANDARD'S BERLIN CORRESPONDENT says, the appointment of M. Giers as minister of foreign affairs of Russia is viewed as an eminently pacific symptom, and will do much to restore confidence regarding the intentions and policy of Russia than all the friendly assurances which have hitherto been received from St. Petersburg. The appointment gives great satisfaction in Constantinople.

THE MOSCOW GAZETTE says it is intended to reduce the army at the end of this year by 37,000 men.

FARNELL ON PAROLE.
Farnell was released from prison Sunday morning, and is now on his way to England. The release is a parole for a week, in order to enable him to visit a sister in Paris, whose child has just died.

CASTLE OFFICERS ARE CONSIDERING the course of action to be recommended for adoption by parliament in regard to the renewal or repeal of the coercion act. All Irish law advisors of the crown and several constables and military inspectors are in Dublin. Prominent officials generally take the gloomiest view of the country.

FROM THE ISLE OF SKYE.
Lord Macdonald having sent summonses to twenty of the tenants of his estate on the Isle of Skye for non-payment of rent, the process server was met by a mob and turned not to return, and the summonses were burnt. The non-payment is said to be spreading rapidly on the island.

THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR laid the cornerstone of the new English church to be named All Saints in the Via Etruriana, Rome, today. Twenty clergymen, a number of nobles and about one thousand English and American visitors were present at the ceremony. It is hoped the church will be opened Easter Sunday next.

PROS IN THE SOUTH.
VIENNA, April 10.—The bitterly cold weather and hard frosts now prevailing will, it is feared, greatly injure the crops. The fruit trees and vines and young wheat are almost entirely destroyed.

A DIVIDEND PROMISED.
LONDON, April 10.—A dispatch to the Times from Paris, says the creditors of the bankrupt Lyon et Loire bank may expect a dividend of about 80 per cent.

THE DEAN STANLEY WINDOW.
Special Dispatch to the Constitution.
Dean Bradley has issued a statement concerning the memorial window to the late Dean Stanley, subscribed to by the Americans. He says the list of subscribers thoroughly bears out the statement of Rev. Philip Brooks, as to its widely representative character, and it would be invidious to make a selection, but it is interesting to remark that the name of Henry W. Longfellow following that of Oliver Wendell Holmes is followed by those of Ralph Waldo Emerson and John G. Whittier.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.
The constitutional convention will meet tomorrow.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE CONSTITUTION.
The constitutional convention of Utah territory met today. There was a full attendance, chiefly monogamists. Joseph T. Smith, president of the territory, presided. The delegates were elected by the people. The convention will adjourn sine die tomorrow, or to some period with the intention of dropping it. The delegates are in a secret meeting place, and anything was to be conceded, the church authorities should have done it at the late conference. As they did not, the labor of the convention must be in vain, and it had better adjourn at once.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR and some of the apostles, who had their polygamous wives living in the house with them, have consented to them out for fear of arrest, under section three of the Edmunds bill, which makes cohabitation with more than one woman a misdemeanor. Taylor turned out all his wives, saying that if he could not have them all he would not have any of them, but they still live in houses provided by him, and it is not seen how he has helped himself. This third section is just beginning to be understood, and it promises to trouble the polygamists much more than disfranchise.

THE BOSTON SENSATION.
Further Details of the Conspiracy to Swindle Charles Francis Adams.
Boston, April 10.—The family and friends of Mr. Charles Francis Adams maintain the strictest secrecy as to the details of the swindle perpetrated on the venerable statesman by a gang of confidence men. The family content themselves by saying that the statement furnished to the press contains all that can be said about the affair; that they tell the whole truth in that, so far as they know, and that if there were any further developments they must be kept out of the trial.

OUTSIDE OF THE narrow circle in which the Adams family move opinions are divided as to the facts in this strange case. A gentleman who has followed the case through Richard Olney's office, where the interview with the shapers was held, says that he has no doubt that Mr. Adams was deceived on the game and signed the checks to cover the losses. He says further: "It is true that the old gentleman is declining gradually, both from a mental and a physical standpoint, but he was as responsible when he drew three checks for $17,500, $1,000 and $250, respectively, as he was when he drew another one three or four days later for $500." This does not so clearly appear. Mr. Adams' balance at the Merchants' bank was just $18,000. The aggregate of his supposed losses, or concessions, to the gamblers was $19,250. He had overdrawn his account by $1,250, and yet, three days after the transaction, he signed another check for $500. This was paid, but the clerk was notified that the account had been withdrawn.

THE NOTIFICATION fell into the hands of his son, Charles Francis, Jr., who was thunderstruck. He went to the bank, and there learned that one Fernald, a lawyer and a depositor in the same bank, had deposited a check for $17,500. Fernald had been had by the check handed to him, and that while he was suspicious about it, he could only leave it in the bank till after the monthly settlements had been made, and that while he was told where and how he had got the check and professed ignorance of any attempt at wrong doing. On the question of Mr. Adams' mental condition, there was one opinion among those who knew him intimately, and that is that his mind was weakening.

I was told as long ago as last September, by one of his sons, that the family were making strenuous efforts to prevent him from performing any work that required thought or study. He was a good subject for a gang of

OUTSIDE OF THE narrow circle in which the Adams family move opinions are divided as to the facts in this strange case. A gentleman who has followed the case through Richard Olney's office, where the interview with the shapers was held, says that he has no doubt that Mr. Adams was deceived on the game and signed the checks to cover the losses. He says further: "It is true that the old gentleman is declining gradually, both from a mental and a physical standpoint, but he was as responsible when he drew three checks for $17,500, $1,000 and $250, respectively, as he was when he drew another one three or four days later for $500." This does not so clearly appear. Mr. Adams' balance at the Merchants' bank was just $18,000. The aggregate of his supposed losses, or concessions, to the gamblers was $19,250. He had overdrawn his account by $1,250, and yet, three days after the transaction, he signed another check for $500. This was paid, but the clerk was notified that the account had been withdrawn.

THE NOTIFICATION fell into the hands of his son, Charles Francis, Jr., who was thunderstruck. He went to the bank, and there learned that one Fernald, a lawyer and a depositor in the same bank, had deposited a check for $17,500. Fernald had been had by the check handed to him, and that while he was suspicious about it, he could only leave it in the bank till after the monthly settlements had been made, and that while

TILDEN SPEAKS.

A Letter from the Stage of Democracy to the Jeffersonian Club of New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3.—The Jeffersonian club of this city, celebrated the anniversary of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson at their club rooms on Chapel street this evening.

MR. TILDEN'S LETTER.

GREYSTONE, March 26, 1882.—Gentlemen: I have received your letter in behalf of the Jeffersonian club of New Haven, inviting me to be present at the commemoration of the birth of Thomas Jefferson.

LAND GRABBING.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—Some very curious proceedings in connection with the sale of public lands are reported from the interior department.

THE FACTS.

as far as known, appear to be about as follows: A certain tract of swamp land contiguous to the city of Toledo, O., has been held for a number of years past by a club of New York and Chicago sporting gentlemen, known as the "New York and Chicago Ducking Club," of which President Arthur is said to be a member.

CITY NEWS.

THE REGULAR RECORD OF CURRENT LOCAL EVENTS.

The Day's Doing in Public Places—The Record of the Courts, the Railroads and Hotels—Capital Jottings—Real Estate Operations—Improvements—Gossip of all kinds.

New signs are abundant. Yesterday was a windy day. The streets were crowded yesterday. The small-pox scare has about subsided. Game has disappeared from the market. Yesterday was an exceedingly disagreeable day.

Abbe Graves, charged with larceny, is in the calaboose. The real estate agents reported business as dull yesterday. The circus was largely attended yesterday afternoon.

Mr. E. N. Butler, of the Buffalo Evening News, is in the city. A. M. Cash is in the city prison awaiting a trial for simple larceny.

The most beautiful blonde in Georgia is visiting friends in Atlanta. The Gate City Guard prize drill at DeGives' to-night will be entertaining.

The city hall park is a favorite resort for young folks in the afternoon. The municipal election is being warmly discussed by ward politicians.

The balloon ascension yesterday evening was witnessed by a large crowd. This is the season of the year when small boys go to bathing and get drowned.

Mr. Henry Walback, of Peoria, Illinois, died at 33 North Pryor street yesterday morning, of consumption.

There are more real estate sales in Atlanta than in all the other Georgia cities combined; so real estate men say.

Stone Mountain is putting on city airs. She has her streets named and has street lamps. It is proposed to number the houses, and then schemes for a park and water works system will be in order.

The rumor of the assassination of Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, was very generally talked of in Atlanta until the Constitution's dispatches announced that the rumor was without foundation.

The negroes who have been quarantined near the stockade on account of the fact that they were occupants of the Beaver Slide, and were thought to have been exposed to small-pox, are all doing well.

IT IS SAID. That brick will soon be cheaper. That a Decatur street doctor makes two or three hundred dollars a year selling blooded dogs.

That a plan of penny contributions is to be adopted in many of the Sunday-schools of the city. That the people are anxious to see the new scheme of lighting the city with electric light tried.

That the schedule of spring and summer excursions on the Air-Line will be made out in a few days. That the neighborhood of the Willingham building is more orderly since the burning of the Beaver Slide.

That a petition is to be sent up for a police officer to be stationed in the city hall park during the evening watch.

The Jackson Building. Yesterday work was commenced on the new Jackson building, which is to occupy the lot on the northeast corner of Pryor and Alabama. The property is owned by Captain Harry Jackson, and constitutes a part of the burned district. The new building will be a handsome double four story brick and will cost $25,000. It will be one of the most handsome buildings in that locality.

Drowned. Jacob Lester, a young white man about 20 years of age, was drowned in Angier springs Sunday afternoon. Lester and several companions were in bathing, when he was seized with cramp, and before aid could reach him he was dead. Late in the evening his body was recovered and taken to St. Peter's church. An inquest was held yesterday, and a verdict of death by accidental drowning was rendered. Lester's parents reside in Missouri.

Death of Robert Stansell. About two or three weeks ago, Robert Stansell, while engaged at work on the Georgia Pacific railroad, twelve miles from the city, had one of his feet run over and crushed so that amputation was necessary. Stansell was brought to the city and carried to the residence of his mother, on Decatur street, where he died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, from the effect of the injuries to his foot. He will be buried at Oakland cemetery, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Raffling a Horse. The papers for signatures of persons who wish to take chances in the horse raffle mentioned in THE CONSTITUTION a few days ago are out. One is at Keely's saloon, another at Reid's livery stable and another at the Kimball, one has been sent to Macon and another to Augusta. The horse is a beautiful sorrel and a thoroughbred Kentucky trotter. He has been in training only a short while, and can beat 2:40. The chances are $10 each.

Circular 20. The railroad commission is receiving daily from various small towns in all sections of the state, petitions out with a petition for the benefit of the cheap fares given by the circular. The railroads at Chattanooga, since the adoption of the circular, have reduced rates on flour and grain from Cincinnati and St. Louis to Atlanta and Macon from seven to eleven cents per hundred pounds. Thus the whole state has been benefited by the reduced rates.

Coup's Circus and Menagerie. The above combination, according to advertisement, appeared promptly on the streets yesterday morning about 10 o'clock in a grand street procession, which surpassed that of last year. The bright and attractive appearance of the vans, the sleek, fresh look of spirited horses, and the lively healthy animals that could be seen, combined with the music of good bands, decided so many to see the performance and at the entertainment in the afternoon the tent was packed. A very strong wind prevailed all the afternoon, so much so, as to make it imprudent to fully raise the center canvases, and this, as a matter of course, caused a change of programme which left out some of the best, special features. The wind not interfering at night the promises of the programme were carried out. The animals are all in good condition, and are fine specimens of their species. The bronchos and leaping horses are well worthy of being seen. The dog actors of Professor White are finely trained. In fact, the various features introduced at each performance seemed satisfactory to all present. The night entertainment was more largely attended and the performance well received.

Mr. Coup, aside from being a courteous gentleman, is an experienced man in his business, has improved his shows greatly since last here, and anticipates with a combination of this season which will give satisfaction to the public and prove remunerative to him.

BIRDS AND FLOWERS. A Constitution Reporter Had a Short Talk With a Prominent Florist.

"Is there much of a demand for sunflower seed?" asked a CONSTITUTION reporter of a prominent florist yesterday.

"There has been a very heavy demand. I believe that I am the only seed dealer in town who has been able to keep a supply."

"Who buys the seed?"

"Oh, nearly everybody. They buy them

STILSON, JEWELER,

RELIABLE GOODS AND BOTTOM PRICES,

53 WHITEHALL STREET.

and plant them just for the novelty of the thing. I don't think that they buy them because they admire Oscar Wilde, but sundowners are all the rage, you know, and one might as well be out of the world as out of the fashion. The boom started somewhere, and it struck Atlanta with about the same effect that I suppose it had on other places."

"Then we have no real disciples of Oscar?"

"Not many, unless you include under that head those who have a weakness for things that are quaint and curious, or odd. I think the same people who buy sunflower seed are the ones who buy Japanese ornaments."

"Barring the sunflower, which are the most popular flowers?"

"We are having a good run on bedding plants. There is an unprecedented demand for geraniums, heliotropes, verbenas, fuchsias and pot roses."

"Is the general demand for flowers good?"

"Better than I have ever known before, and I have been in the business twenty-two years."

"The terminating season is about over, is it not?"

"No; it will last up to the first of May. You may say that a considerable amount of work is being done on hedges in yards and in the cemetery."

"I see you have some birds here. What are canaries worth?"

"I can sell you a good singer for five dollars."

"How much for a mocking bird?"

"From ten to twenty dollars."

OUR INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISES. Everything Moving Rapidly—The New Cotton Mills and the Cotton Seed Mills—The Commerce, Etc.

It is understood that contracts will be closed to-day for the purchase of a complete outfit of ten thousand spindles for the Cotton Exposition mills. The executive committee, in whose hands the making of the contract has been placed, have been consulting with prominent machine men for several days. The contract will probably be closed, the mill filled with machinery at once and the mill in operation before fall.

Myself and my partner, Mr. Post, said Mr. Grant Wilkins, on yesterday, as he sat at the circus watching the trick horses, "I have just bought the six acres on which this tent is pitched."

"What are you going to do with it?"

"We are going to put up shops to carry on our work of bridge making. We do several hundred thousand dollars worth of work yearly and we need large shops at which to prepare our material. We will build the six acres, at once, shops that will give employment to from 250 to 300 men. At present we are working a large force at our shops, near the site of the old rolling mill, and we have bought now and we will build our own shops and enlarge our works."

Messrs. Wilkins & Post are the most prominent bridge builders in the southern country, and there are few firms in America that handle larger contracts or have a better reputation for efficient work, and their putting up large shops here will add a very important industry.

The machinery for the new hundred thousand dollar cotton seed oil mill, which was purchased from a firm in Dayton, Ohio, and is being prepared and shipped. The specification for the building have now in the hands of the architects. The plans were drawn by Messrs. Bruce & Morgan, who made the plans for the Nashville mill. As soon as the bids are all in the work will be started, and the mill will be ready for the fall business.

The ground has been broken by Messrs. Parrott and Turner and others for the canal project. Thirty-one received the holy rites of confirmation. Then followed the address to the class, abounding in strong, earnest admonitions as to the duties of Christian life and Christian thought. Some of the figures illustrating the subject were beautiful and impressive—extemporaneous effort giving him the force of his message, and which so largely assisted in the influence exercised by true oratory. Advancing years brings to his style more compact and convincing tone, both as to matter and manner.

The attendance at St. Luke's Episcopal church was unusually large on Sunday. Under the able management of Mrs. Binyon, the organist, the music was well rendered. The choir consisted of a dozen or more boys and girls trained in the Sunday school and an adult choir of well chosen voices.

At 4 o'clock in the evening the children's Easter festival was celebrated. At the close of the professional the banners were arranged around the altar, making a very picturesque display, while the floral offerings were very beautiful. At night the shop visited St. Luke's parish and confirmed twelve persons. This being the bishop's second visitation, makes twenty-six persons confirmed this year.

At the close of the session Bishop Beck with made a statement of the work of the parish during the past two and a half years and of its present condition, showing a communion list of 149 against 39 names on the roll two and a half years ago. The income of the parish during the past year has been $1,190.02, and the expenses $1,075.39. This, too, when the church does not rent the pews.

The usual Easter services took place at St. Peter and Paul on Marietta street. The attendance was very large at the morning and evening service. The church was tastefully decorated and the music was excellent. At the service at half-past ten o'clock high mass was celebrated and, at night the vesper service was held. Rev. Father McMahon officiated.

On your way down town this morning you will notice that all the tobacco stores display the Duke of Durham Cigarettes in their show windows. If you have never seen this brand of cigarette, you will find it a most interesting one. It is a short-cut cigarette and is made with the largest scale of any brand in the city.

Latest news from the Ohio election is that the Duke of Durham Cigarettes are chosen by a large majority of voters as the favorite cigarette in the Buckeye region. Ohio men seldom get off, and find great consolation in smoking the Duke of Durham.

Crowds were turned away from St. Philip's before the service began. The floral decorations were the most elaborate and beautiful ever used in this church.

church—soon to give place to a new and beautiful edifice—disappearing like many other familiar and regretted objects—dear for its hallowed memories and enriched by deep and abiding associations. The front was the most conspicuous—calla lilies, snowballs and roses, mingling together in exquisite combinations. The lecture and altar were also tastefully decorated, being dressed with flowers from Mobile, Ala. and LaGrange and Griffin, Ga., the effect of the whole striking the eye as a scene of emblematic beauty and elevating influence. The selections of music were fine and rendered in the usual style and volume. Mrs. Clarke's soprano being the attraction. The bishop announced that during the singing of three stanzas of the 32nd hymn, the candidates for confirmation would advance to the chancel rail. Thirty-one received the holy rites of confirmation. Then followed the address to the class, abounding in strong, earnest admonitions as to the duties of Christian life and Christian thought.
